

LOCAL ORDER

Within a domain, agents share data, validate findings, and train models together.

GLOBAL ORDER

Across domains, bridges form. A finding in one community reshapes interpretation in another.

Same population, two scales of structure. Local communities share methods and data.

Global bridges produce understanding no single community could reach alone.